APL donates music studio

By: Elthon Jon F. Cayetano

Renovation of the computer laboratory and the new musical instruments at APL Music studio made possible by Mr. Allan Pineda Lindo

Mr. Allan Pineda spearheaded the building of the music studio in Sapang Bato National High School which was done simultaneously during the renovation of the APL de Ap computer laboratory on May 15, 2018.

The renovation was done through the help of Mr. Geoffrey Bartolo, director of the APL de Ap Foundation,

Mr. Edgie Cortez, Adopt-A-School Program Coordinator, Mrs. Lyn Ocampo, and Mrs. Cristina Pineda, APL's mother. The music studio has officially opened on June 2018. A complete set of musical instruments were delivered and made available primarily for all the students of Sapang Bato National High School. On the other hand, additional air conditioners and white boards were installed in the computer lab to make it more conducive to learning.

APL has been a consistent stakeholder of the school since 2007. Aside from the computer lab and music studio, he also donated the APL library and helped students through the APL de Ap scholarship.

SBNHS debate team bags 1st place

By: Dezyn Banda

SBNHS bagged first place in Kapampangan Language High School Debate held in Newpoint Mall, Angeles City last August 24-25, 2018.

Grade nine students of Sapang Bato National High School, Johnlee Carreon, Eingel Lumbang, Carl John Fontanilla, Lynsey Ferrer and Kristen Nina Sagun came out on top in the Kapampangan Debate with the theme "Matenakang Anak Ning Amanung Sisuan."

By the help and support of the school and their coach Ms. Nelissa Masanque who trained them for two weeks, they got the first place and received certificates and cash prize worth 10,000 pesos.

It was not easy for the SBNHS debate team as they compete with four other schools in Angeles City and ranked as fourth placer on the first day of the said event. Over all, they got the first place and Chevalier School won the championship.

Mrs. Rosewyn Corpuz receives Hygiene kits from AECC nurses

AECC provides hygiene kits

By: Dezlyn Banda

Angeles Eastern Children Center provided Hygiene Kits to the Grade 7 students of Sapang Bato National High School on June 28, 2018. "Cleanliness is next to Godliness." This quotation was emphasized as selected nurses from AECC gave the seventh graders a lecture about personal hygiene. They made a room to room visit to make sure that every class would learn from them.

Mrs. Joanne M. Serrano, company nurse of Angeles Eastern Children Center, led the other nurses in donating hygiene kits to the freshmen of SBNHS. Mrs. Rosewyn F. Corpuz, Grade 7 coordinator assisted the visitors.

Each student received a kit containing basic necessities such as shampoo, deodorant and soap. These kits have notes that would serve as reminders for the students in taking care of their personal hygiene. "Panatilihing malinis ang pangangatawan upang makaiwas sa sakit." — one of the reminders that the students read from the notes.

SBNHS, partner companies sign MOA

Deped Division of Angeles City officials, Mrs. Luina G. Rivera, Mr. Abdon D. Aguilar and partner companies during the MOA signing

Angeles City - A memorandum of agreement signing was held between Sapang Bato National High School and partner companies (Connex Global Solutions, Barangay Sapangbato, Puning Hot Spring, and Se Hyun Jung Restaurant) at SBNHS Senior High School building on October 16, 2018.

The event started with an opening ceremony followed by the welcoming message of our dear principal Mrs. Ma. Luina G. Rivera and representative of each company.ies. After, an intermission number was presented by the SHS students. Soon after, The signing of each company started.

Grade 12 students of SBNHS are currently getting ready for their approaching immersion subject wherein Grade 12 students need to experience exposure on the actual work environment in the companies with work identified with their specialization. In addition, Immersion program is one of the course requirements for graduation.

DepEd believes that the compelling conveyance of SHS with the K-12 enhanced basic education curriculum that incorporates senior high school with the significant target of guaranteeing that alumni are of fundamental instruction and are prepared for

New building soon to rise!

A 4-storey, 20-classroom building is under construction replacing the 4th year building and the three more classrooms beside it. The building is expected to be finished by mid 2019. This building could ease students and would make learning more conducive.

Angelito Capuno receives his award for winning 3rd place in DSPC 2018

Capuno to join RSPC

By: Patric Ian D. Cortez

Angeles City - After several days in length training, rivalry among the best campus journalists compete at Angeles City Elementary School. Placers of Sapang Bato National High school 2018 Division School Press Conference (DSPC) in the secondary level were announced on Thursday, October 11.

Three students of SBNHS received their honors for setting in the DSPC 2018. Elthon Jon F. Cayetano took the fourth place in Copyreading and Headline writing for the second time. In Science and Technology, Gwyneth Jayna O. Dayrit bagged the fifth place, and lastly, Angelito T. Capuno won the third place in Editorial Cartooning (Filipino Category) and will have the opportunity to go up against the other schools in this coming Regional Schools Press Conference (RSPC).

Elthon Cayetano, Editor-in-chief of The Riverside Echo said "I think this is the start of reviving the glory of SBNHS in campus journalism."

Journalists are on the whole attempt to create a newspaper that will act as the ticket for Angelito T. Capuno to empower him to contend in RSPC.

SBNHS alumnus donates scientific calculators

By: Elthon Jon F. Cayetano

Mrs. Agustin receives scientific calculators from Mr. Garcia

Mr. Jojo Garcia, Sapang Bato National High School alumnus donates scientific calculators to the students of SBNHS on July 26, 2018.

Mr. Garcia consistently serves his alma mater by donating school supplies. This year, he provided 45 scientific calculators for the SBNHS students. He also prepared extra batteries for back up.

Mr. Garcia said that as an educator, he knew that those would serve as an aid to the students especially in learning mathematics easier. He was accompanied by his fellow alumnus, Mr. Jay Garcia.

"These will be of great help to our students," said Mrs. Leonora Z. Agustin, former principal of SBNHS as she received the donations with her fullest gratitude. Mrs. Rosewyn F. Corpuz, Grade 7 coordinator assisted Mrs. Agustin in the preparation of the deed of donation.

SHS students and teachers execute the 3rd earthquake drill.

SHS conducts earthquake drill

By: Patric Ian D. Cortez

The students of SBNHS performed an earthquake drill this November 5, 2018 to prepare for possible earthquakes.

It was seen that the ground structures were too high leaving little sections for students to stroll on, making the grounds inclined to threats of any possible calamities to happen, like an earthquake. Ms. Nelissa Masanque, Disaster Risk Reduction Management Coordinator said that the drill was successful because all students and school's personnel participated and each student executed the duck cover and hold safety measure. Also, they practiced properly and evacuated orderly.

Mr. Geoffrey Bartolo, Mrs. Ma. Luina G. Rivera. Mr. Edgardo Cortez and students receive books of Entrepreneurship.

Mekeni Foods Corporation delivers food for the mind

By: Michelle Angelene O. Aguilar

Mekeni Food Corporation donates entrepreneurship books for senior high school students of Sapang Bato National High School on October 25, 2018.

Mr. Goeffrey Bartolo, director of APL de Ap Foundation, delivered entrepreneurship books as reference materials for the senior high school students. APL de Ap himself proposed this donation as a part of his continuous support to the school.

These books were related to the one on one Go Negosyo mentoring held at Marquee Mall on September 7, 2018. Mr. Bartolo, in behalf of APL de Ap, invited the SBNHS senior high school students to attend the event. Mrs. Ma. Luina Rivera, SBNHS principal, together with Mr. Edgardo Cortez, Adopt-A-School Program Coordinator and selected senior high school students received the donations with their utmost gratitude.

Anti-profanity ordinance sets in Baguio

By: Dezyn G. Banda

An ordinance penalizing profanity in Baguio City was signed by Mayor Mauricio Domogan which was authored by City Councilor Lilia Farinias.

This ordinance bans cursing in schools, computer shops, arcades and other business establishments patronized by young people.

The ordinance says that the habit of cursing has been observed everywhere and already penetrated schools and educational system, business establishments and society as a whole, that even the very fabric of morals and human decency has deteriorated to such a degree that we have to prevent it before the damage would become irreparable.

The ordinance suggests that school administrator, teachers, staff and assigned class officers should provide school policies apprehending violators, and, if tenacious, shall employ graduating consequences for every violation. Expulsion from school is one of the penalties for the students who will violate the ordinance.

The city council also requires business establishments to post signage about this new anti-cursing ordinance.

EDITORIAL

Electing the awareness

The campaign of the vying candidates for 2019 Philippine General Elections will start on February 12 until May 11, 2019. Unlawful ways of persuasion, such as vote buying, will be the fine line for this battle of who to win the mass' vote and trust.

Delinquency is unavoidable when it comes to politics. No matter how good the candidates look through the campaign materials, some still have hidden agendas behind the sugarcoated doings.

Some Filipinos are being blinded by money during this time. This leads into wrong decisions on picking the right leader for this country.

The temporary aid for the financial problem of these people who receive reciprocal obligations from the lawbreakers will just extend the suffering because of choosing the leaders who acts selfless, where in fact, they are the real cause of poverty for stealing the money from our pockets which is actually intended to fix the present problems of our country.

The choice is still in us. It is still under our hands which will blacken those circles on the ballot. But before choosing, kindly vote the awareness in you and decide wisely.

Students Cheating In Examination

Dear Mr. EIC,

As we all know, students have cheated once or twice in an exam. But who would have thought that they would go too far to spread the correct answers around the campus with their friends in different sections. Don't you think that the predicament is too unfair?

Students who had been trying their best to achieve high scores and passing grades are having a hard time focusing on their task while others go behind the teacher's back and whisper the correct answers all around the classroom.

I hope this issue will be noticed by every student in the school campus. This problem may be deemed as a small situation but the behavior and discipline of the children are getting out of hand. This problem has to be resolved quickly.

Service and Service Alone

Elthon Jon F. Cayetano

thing in return for what we do. We just love what we are doing. We are school journalists and that's it, nothing more nothing less. From that I realized that a few committed individuals are enough rather than having a large number whose majority just thinks of numbers, if you know what I mean. Despite of shortcomings brought by the school to its journalists, we have remained loyal to our duties, and that is what matters most.

Four years, yes, it's been four years now since I first stepped my foot towards the great doors of campus journalism. At first, I thought why would I join? Could it benefit me? Then on second thought, why not?

On those years, I've been with different kinds of individuals. I felt their different kinds of emotions, I witnessed some who lost their interest and some who chose to grow more in the field we are in. Since a memorandum had came which changes the guidelines for extra-curricular points a student might get in being part of organizations and non-academic participations. I dramatically seen the decline of other journalists, because they would no longer have extra grades for their extra work.

Those who have stayed are heroes. We are those who do not expect any Everything will come to an end and I guess that my time in campus journalism is starting its countdown. I want to advise present and future campus journalists to not let Sapang Bato National High School's Campus Journalism lose its glory. Write, draw and read with your heart, treat rejections as challenges and not a dead end. Make your name on the newspaper an inspiration and not a tool for arrogance.

If the school needs you, always answer the call and don't ever let it down.

MessageFor the students:

I want to convey to all the SBNHS students to know that education is the key to success. So as per my experience, a person who finished their education is different compared to uneducated people, meaning a more knowledgeable person has a better future. Their future depends on their learning today.

For the school:

For me Sapang Bato National High School is one of the best schools, because of the dedication and patience of the hardworking teachers employed there. They give their best to make the students learn the very best they can.

Let's Act Together

We believe in a strong home and school partnership. It's why we welcome and encourage students' involvement in the operation of our school. By teaming up with students who share their vision for better education, we have been able to create a culture of achievement that sets Sapang Bato National High School.

The support of the GPTA to provide the students' needs, Keeping avenues of communication open with our partner-parents is our ongoing commitment.

Thank you for being part of your paper's columns, I'm delighted to work with students in providing a safe and student-friendly environment.

Message from the Principal still give our very best shot in everything we do. We never settle for mediocrity. We still do them with all our hearts. We should always be thankful in every hardship that we encounter, for these will make us better than who we are.

I thank God for where I am right now. He has never failed to bless me and I am giving the glory back to Him.

Dear teachers, I believe that you also deserve to be recognized for being the candles that continuously consume your light for our students. As your leader, I am willing to help in accomplishing our goals. Remember that in order to succeed, we have to exert extra effort. As 2 Chronicles 15:7 puts it, "But as for you, be strong and do not give up, for your work will be rewarded."

As for you, students, I am also challenging you to do your best. Study hard and make your parents proud. Be role models to your fellow students.

Lastly, for our campus journalists, thank you for the perseverance and dedication that you put out in accomplishing our school paper. Congratulations for a job well done!

Unity and Teamwork: Key to a Successful Organization

Unity is oneness; a state in which people are in agreement and act together for a positive purpose. It is a vital component in the attainment of goals which everyone desires especially as a team. A team is a result of unity in action – teamwork. With teamwork, people care about their team's goals and their team mates.

Teamwork is evident

when people cooperate in using their individual skills to achieve common goal or complete a task.

In my five years of fruitful stay at Sapang Bato National High School, I came to appreciate and value the oneness and teamwork of teachers, parents, and students to develop an academic community that is always of service to its stakeholders. Leaders come and go but how good they were as leaders is manifested by the kind of teachers they honed in the 35 years of existence of SBNHS. I admire the faculty dedication with their work.

Everyone stayed beyond their teaching schedule to accomplish tasks which would benefit the community as a whole. There is no request of service credits even if they were asked in the exigency of service, complains, negative reactions you would not hear any. Why were they so committed, so positive with their craft? Later, I realized that it was because they enjoy what they are doing, that they fulfilled with what they are able to accomplish for the school, I also learned that the motivation, appreciation and open communication between the leaders and the faculty paved the way for the school to sail smoothly towards the direction which the academic community aims to attain. This means that through the years, SBNHS leaders were able to create a culture of cohesive commitment among the teachers. This only proves that it pays to invest time to build relationships and strong connections with and among the team so they could deliver and achieve. As Helen Keller said, "Alone, we can do so little; together we can do so much." In being one, greater things can be done.

Beauty in Leading

In my service as League of Leaders president since 2017 till now, I garnered confidence and strength in what I do. When I was just a novice into this kind of doing I thought it was hard to lead a larger number of people but I prove myself wrong, it turned out to be the other way.

around, the way leading has beauty in it. An organization which portrays unity attracts more interests and support from people, with that we do our duties to the best of our will. Here are some of the projects that we've accomplished:

- 1. Bread Production for Brigada Eskwela
- 2. Fundraising for senior high school cleaning materials
- 3. Teachers' Month Celebration
- 4. Project Hotspot dedicated for Tour Guiding NCII

These are just some of the projects that we have accomplished and we are looking forward to add up.

Dilemmas of Student-Athletes in the Point of View of a Teacher

It is very seldom to see a student-athlete that is also a student who excels in academics. Most of the time, student-athletes have grades that are just passing grades or some are still struggling to pass some subjects. As Sir Clarence mentioned, "Ang mga players, excused and exempted sila during trainings and public meet. Highest possible grade sila sa mga activities. Yung grade nila nung first grading would be yung lowest possible grade nila for second grading. Pero kailangan pa din nilang magperiodical exams. Its either magmaintain lang sila or tumaas ang grade". As a former student-athlete at ACNHS-SSC now AcSci, I never had difficulty or any problem with my grades even though we are having trainings during public meets, so what Sir Clarence mentioned I think is not just applicable for our school only, but also to different schools to give appreciation to the efforts of the students to play their sports and give honor to their respective schools.

As I've entered the academic community, I got the chance of becoming a teacher-coach on of my favorite sport, basketball. This is the first time that I heard about students who are given hard time by their subjects teachers saying they will not have the agreed minimum grade or just giving the minimum grade if the student doesn't do any activities they gave to the class during the training and game day.

As one student-athlete said "Sir pinapagawan pa po ako ni (teacher) ng activities, hindi po ba exempted na po kami?". It is not just one sentiment of a student-athlete of one sports but also with other participating students.

As a teacher, my main goal is to make sure that whether you are a regular student, excelling student or even a student-athlete should be doing good in school and to work hard for their grades. It may sound biased to the student-athletes, but I've been in their shoes, I understand their sentiments because I've been just like them, a student who almost got kicked out of SSC because of grades and an student-athlete that gives glory to the school enjoying the privilege of having grades that would show appreciation to my efforts for the school. In my personal opinion, putting myself in the middle of both side's dilemma. The teacher has a point, where it seems to be unfair if he/she will pass the student-athlete if they did nothing.

What is Being a Leader?

In accordance with Merriam Webster Dictionary, leadership means, "sometimes that has the power or the authority to control people." And that is the exact meaning of leadership. But here's the question, have we ever think of what are the qualities and essence of being a leader?

In my own experience, as I continue to do my responsibilities and tasks in the field of leadership, there is a question that always comes into my mind, "Am I an effective leader?" As the president of the Supreme Student Government (SSG), I don't need to ask my fellow officers if I am really an effective leader to them and to the students as well, because I realize that having "passion" on what you do can simply consider yourself as an effective leader. However, to be more effective, there are different qualities of a leader must have, such as being responsible on different tasks. We should be sensitive and responsible every time you have something to do, another, you should "open yourself to others whom are smarter than you," because responding to feedbacks is one of the important ways to make a good decision and good goal. And lastly, we should be a "visionary," because in every decision that we make, there are also hindrances that we are going to face. So as a visionary you should know the possible solutions to possible problems.

These three qualities are not just the one that we need to follow, but if you are just a beginner and wants to be a leader, start your leadership skills by applying these stated qualities. But if you are a leader already, part of your responsibility is being an encourager and a good role model to everyone so that they will also emulate what you do.

I don't believe that you can consider yourself a leader until at least one person follows you.

In the field of leadership, let your light shine to those people who needs your light so that they will shine as well, and unite themselves in spreading the good deeds and helping each other because this is the true essence of leadership.

in their subject, but it is like a slap in the face to the student-athletes who put blood, sweat, and tears to train themselves to win. Let's start first with appreciation, student-athletes should appreciate the efforts of their teachers who are still concerned with their academic status even though they are out practicing and competing for the school. Teachers should atleast show some sign of appreciation to our student-athletes, it is not that easy to train the whole day and try to finish a simple paper to be submitted the next day. In reality, if teachers will still insists, let's say, passing an essay as an assignment to a student-athlete it would just be copied and paste from the internet or worst it would be copied from his/her classmate. Following what is agreed upon by the whole faculty concerning the grades of the student-athletes without saying anything more to them would a simple way of appreciating their efforts. Lastly support, not all teachers can watch the games of our student-athletes so again giving what is agreed upon is also one way of supporting them. Let's not say "Yan lang bibigay ko kasi wala kang ginawa" or "Kailangan mo pa ring magpass ng ganito kung hindi wala kang grade" to our student-athletes because it will affect their mental state in and out of their respective games.

Who is he?

The Legend:

a year on leave

By: Elthon Jon F. Cayetano

For those who don't know him, especially the freshmen and ensuing batches, let me introduce you to whom they call 'the legend.'

Mr. Gilbert C. Tubiera or Sir Gil (pronounced like a fish's breathing apparatus), studied and graduated high school at then Sapang Bato High School now SBNHS as 3rd Honorable Mentioned of his batch.

He started teaching at SBNHS in the year 1997 and at that same year he started touching the lives of his students and co-workers whom he treated as his own family.

He was a MAPEH teacher who's so dedicated on the things he does. He's been SBNHS' sports coordinator and was our senior high school's first teacher-in-charge.

Sir Gil believes that every student has the right to pursue and grab their aspirations in life, setting aside their negative side and weaknesses. He believes that knowledge and ability cannot be measured by just the academic side of schools.

Sir Gil was one of the teachers who frequently extends their stay at school, treating it as their own home. He is hands-on on everything he does, dedication can be seen towards his work. He was a good advisor to both his students and his co-workers. He was undeniably loved, no proof needed. But why? Why was he so charismatic? I guess most readers know. But if you don't, ask someone who knows and your curiosity will be satisfied.

Legacy

Mr. Gilbert Calica Tubiera is one of the great pillars of now we proudly call the school of golden opportunities. SBNHS would not be the school we know today without him in its history.

"Byasa ka, matamad kamu"

His trademark "Byasa ka, matamad kamu" never seize to inspire those who lose hope in studying. It motivates those who have failing grades and encourages them to continue in spite of challenges.

His suddenly unexpected passing made everyone who knows him heavyhearted. Maybe not everyone knew and noticed, but minutes upon arrival of the sad news on that day a rainbow appeared in the sky as if we know where he's going. If there's one word that could describe his interment procession it is 'blockbuster' seeing people flood the roads from the church to the cemetery is simply amazing.

Always alive and never forgotten

3 DAYS

12-Berners poses after being hailed festival dance champion

FRIDAY, October 19, 2018 - 12-Berners crowned as the Festival Dance Champion.

The class was told to showcase a five minute minimum Masskara Festival Dance beforehand. But of course, unending outputs were to submit, so the class was unable to practice for a much longer period of time. Hours right after class are the only chances Berners could practice and dance. Tuesday, October 18 was the first practice. Three hours of that chance were wasted. The class practiced only for two hours and finished the one minute and 30 seconds of the five-minute dance. The next day is the second day to practice. The class was able to maximize the remaining time for practice. Up until the third day, last day of practice, 12-Berners went solid to finish the execution of steps and various formations of the five-minute dance. However, it's not just about the dance. Masskara should be done with props such as the Masskara itself and more. Gladly, the section agreed to settle with simple and easy access costume.

Come the performance, Berners were anxious seeing the other sections being prepared by their costumes and props. Maybe three days is not enough to come up with a good five-minute dance. But the class president was full of encouragement as he was always shouting "Kaya natin 'to! Mananalo tayo!" But to add more fuel to the already burning fire, Berners just have to perform first. As pressure is adding, worries are increasing too. "Enjoy niyo lang yung dance and always smile!" one said before finally stepping to the stage.

As impossible as it may sound, the three-day practice of 12-Berners made them the champs. It's a realization that Berners were champions not because of the props nor the dance. It was all about the camaraderie of each. Despite having the limited chances to practice and do everything, Berners wanted to give out everything and enjoy. 17 hour practice within three consecutive days was really worth the hassle.

#Ma'am Arren!

Ma'am Arren is a teacher/adviser that I really loved. One of the reasons for that is because she is a stern yet supportive teacher to her students. She is also a kind teacher, she is someone that you can tell your problems and burdens to. Thank you for everything you have done for us (Grade 9 - Shakespeare 2017 - 2018) One Love, One Goal

- From: Your Former Student,
Denden

#To Ma'am Janelle

Hi Ma'am! I know that there are a lot of times that we might have stressed you out but I wanted to let you know that you're an amazing teacher. Talking to us students when something is troubling us, hearing our personal opinions and theories that happens in the classroom.

Ma'am Ja, you're the first ever teacher that I had opened up to. You're someone that I admire greatly, you may or may have not resembled my mother a few times but here's the thing, thank you very much! We really appreciate all the work you have done for us and we love you! I wish you an enjoyable life and an amazing day! - From: J.C.C.F.

#To Ma'am Alma

You are one of the best teachers I had ever encountered, do you want to know why? Because of the way you do your job as a teacher and guardian to us. You're an excellent teacher that always makes us laugh with your jokes especially knowing that everything you say is unscripted and always created on the spot. Thank you for the amazing memories! - From: L.A.

#Hello Ma'am Alma

First of all, we would like to thank you for being part of our high school life. Thank you for being one of the best teachers in SBNHS. We are grateful that we have a teacher like you. At first we thought you're a strict and a terror teacher but as time passes by we're learning a lot things about your personality. You're like a mother figure to us. We really love your teaching skills because you're making such uninteresting lessons more interesting and easy to understand. Thank you for being a part of our lives and for being one of the keys for our future journey. This may be our last school year in SBNHS but no one will forget all of the moments we spent together, all the laughter, sadness, and madness. All of those are engrave with our hearts and minds. We wish you to enjoy life as it is and gain more knowledge and wisdom as you go on. - From: Your Former Student, S.J.

#To my friends

Hi, thank you dahil naging kaibigan ko kaya! True friends are really hard to find kaya I'm lucky to have you.

Thank you for making me happy, thank you for being my partners in crime, thank you for the love! I love you all

I would like to thank you for helping to create the unforgettable memories that we created. We had fun joking around, laughing at jokes, teasing each other for their actions and a lot more. Because of you guys, my life as a Grade 9 student was one of the most wonderful memories I have even though the teachers are always mad at us at least we had good memories together. Unity was one of our best points in our section. If one of us is in need of our help, we would not hesitate to go and help them in their time of need even at the most difficult moments. And last of all, I would like to thank Ma'am Arrenpy Munoz for understanding us despite the fact that we are stubborn and hard-headed type of students we would like to thank you for that.

Thank you for the memories!

10 IRSE POETRY

Sa uded

By:Aiko Fujino

Lost in the depths of a world of glitters and euphoria,
A memory was hanging:
Wounded, almost forgotten, yet precious like sangria.
It was heavenly beautiful and a sight to see,
But also filled with sorrow and agony,
Wanting you to hide and flee.

Why does the songs you made for me, are the ones you sing to her now?
Where were the words you promised and uttered like a vow?
Shattered, you picked my fragments.
Dead, you killed our commitment.
Ruining the image of mated persons and their attachment.

Longing for the same old moments and chances to have,
Now even more withering like a rose in mauve.
Asking, why did you have to leave?
Was the love not enough or not worth to keep?

Saudade, don't keep me struggling of nostalgia and longing.
This battle is not even worth of fighting:
Tears, regrets, and pretending.
Are you happy to see the chaos you made?
It's a storm within me that doesn't seem to fade.
Merciless, dreadful, cold as snow,
You left it in me long, long time ago.

A WOMAN AND A MAN

By: Marie R. Cadaucaan

For the woman who thinks that she is not enough
A woman who sets her mind that she is not tough
The woman who never tried but always giving up
Who lets herself buried in sadness and never put herself up

I don't deserve to be loved she said
Not unless she is lying old and dead
No one will like her because she is not pretty
When someone confess, she thinks it's only out of pity

Little did she know that there's a man out there
A man who is secretly in love with her
He's a man who is a man enough
To tell his woman that she is more than enough

She is the most beautiful woman that's what she said
He wants to be with her even life after death
Maybe others say that she is not pretty
But for him she is the prettiest among every body

A man that is truly honored to love a woman like her
He wished on a thousand stars just to get her love, attention and time for them to stay together
And finally be their each other's happily ever after

Beautiful Stranger

By:Kelly Ann Cabalonga

You were just a stranger to me
You were just an invisible person I see
But then you became visible to my heart's key.
Time to time, day by day
I became more interested to know you, like hey!?
You're annoying, You're irritating they say
But that was the reason why I adore you in just any way.
Your looks, your smile, your personality
They were perfectly imperfect to me just like how I grew.
I don't know what is this feelings all about, it's just that...

How can you make me smile effortlessly?
How can you make me happy easily?
Why do I laugh at your jokes that aren't funny?
Why do I keep looking for you eagerly?
Why do I keep thinking about you recently?
Maybe it's you, whom I like secretly?
It's you who can make me smile
It's you who can make me happy in a while
It's you who completes my unknown profile.
But you can't feel it without knowing
Because I choose to avoid everything
I choose to hide this feeling
Even I was deeply hurting
Because of what I'm seeing
And I choose to smile, but then its just that I'm pretending
Nevermind, but thank you for everything.
Just please do not change
And I will not forget you in exchange.
At least in this journey
There is another someone special who is worthy
And now, someone new is a part of my lovelife's story.
My admiration for you will never fadeaway
Even deep in my heart knows that to you I'm just an airway.
I was okay yesterday, I will again today and everyday.
Just seeing you happy makes my day
Along with planning to be the reason of yours happiness someday.
And in my heart which is in danger
You will be forever
But just a beautiful stranger.

Sun and the Cosmos

By: Anonymous

I have wondered so far to find the things I desired,
Lost in the maze of the world of emeralds and sapphire
I have wondered so far to find the things I needed
Neglecting the sublime things around;
precious, almost have faded

I searched, saved, sought, and seized just to find something more beautiful
Greedy, seeking and lost,
I saw something that won't match any cost
Superb, pure and found
Seems like waiting for me to see like it's bound

A warm, calming light and a piece of peace has come
A racing, frightening heartbeating the utterance of its name
For it was a masterpiece of a great artist
Full of colors, meaning and twist

Dazed, captivated and fallen
Like a lullaby so deep, serene, solemn
Embraced my whole like an undying evergreen mass
There, I knew, I found my own sun and cosmos

Inside

By: Alysha Anderie C. Sta Teresa

Frightened, that's what I always feel
Just like a soothsayer, I see
I feel like I know what the future will be

Happy and calm if you'll look at me,
But inside I'm screaming like a banshee
Opening my doors will never be easy
But I'll try as hard as possible for thee

Reminiscing

By:Nelissa M. Masanque

Tales of childhood spent with fun
Details of life under the sun
Autumn, winter, summer and spring
These are my thoughts when I'm
reminiscing

The happy times of my youth
No lies, only innocence and truth
Everything is a sense of wonder
Every experience is an adventure

Now I'm old and gray
I have watched life pass away
These happy thoughts
In my grave I will carry
Cause all I possess are my memories

One cannot help but feel nostalgic
Of juvenile days filled with magic
Gone are those times of fate
All I can do now is contemplate

By: Chelsea Ann G. Salvador

As I look up above the skies,
When light is darkness because of lies;
When hope is failure because of fears;
When love is hate, it brings me tears.

Oblivion said that stars have eyes;
I wonder if they see my painful cries.
When I take a glance, they wink at me;
To my surprise, the truth, now I see.

And then these stars befriended me;
A moment of disillusionment it seemed to be.
In the middle of the night, when all seemed so lame;
Came a number of stars that spelled out my name.
Their sparks were like a song in the night;
They brought me courage when I felt this fright.
They took my sorrow, and whenever I sigh,
They cheered me up so I wouldn't cry.

Developing society

Anne Juana

Gwyneth Jayna O. Dayrit

Science has always been a part of people's lives. It satisfies the basic needs of humanity, gives masses of knowledge about the life itself and basically, science is just life. Since then, it never neglected its purpose and it still continues to improve and grow. Science made its way to the peak - developing the society by the use of technology.

Since I was born, there was an advancement of technology already. There were flip phones, newly invented cars and robots, etc. New generations just have to make it grow further and make sure to use it in a very efficient way.

I have been using technology for as long as I could remember. And this mainly improved and made my life easier as an individual, student, and now as the Associate Editor of the school publication. I've had easy access especially when it comes to school works and commitments. But on the other hand, it being an easy access, people take it in a wrong and unmannered way.

I clearly want to say that this technology is not for evil purposes. It's a privilege to be given such spectacular thing like this. More years from now, surely we will discover a lot more and inventions will yet to unfold. So, let's focus on its proper usage and let's look forward to its development rather than the mere advantage it could offer.

Google Wi-fi launches in Phils

By: Juliet Carmel C. Formoso

On June, Philippine Long Distance Telephone joined forces with Google to help upgrade our wireless fidelity in the Philippines by crafting a hand-sized router created by the Google Company for the buyers to have a greater and better internet experience.

It is said to be a strong and fast working network, an easy accessible internet connection to all devices and can be reachable to any WiFi dead spots in your home.

According to research, Google Wifi was already released outside the Philippines. Last December 5, 2016, the router was launched in the United States of America with the price of 299$ (15,894 Php) for three units and each one costs 129$ (6,857 Php).

The Google Wifi router will always ensure the device owners that their smartphones are strongly connected, making sure that there will be no more disturbance while using your technology.

Possible link of Air Pollution to Autism

By: Gwyneth Jayna Dayrit

Air pollution exposure found to be a factor of Autism risk during a child's life.

Researchers of Environmental International have reviewed various studies in humans and animals inspecting the results of pollution exposure on Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD) in a mother's womb and child's early life. 124 children with ASD and 1,240 healthy children were studied as controls. It was found out that air pollution exposure is capable of increasing the risk of ASD for up to 78 percent.

Dioxins are highly toxic environmental pollutant that can cause malfunctions of the mitochondria, thyroid gland, and nerve cell communication -- possible causes of autism.

People are usually exposed to these industrial processes through animal-based foods such as dairy or meat. A child exposed to chemicals like this has higher chances of having the risks of ASD.

According to Associate Professor Guo, "The developing brains of young children are more vulnerable to toxic exposures in the environment and several studies have suggested this could impact brain function and the immune system." He said that these effects could clarify the association between Air Pollution and Autism, however, further research should be done to explore more of the relationship of the two.

Sleep deprivation is a condition where people of any age can hardly get any sleep, don't confuse it with insomnia. Insomnia is a disorder that is known to make a person have the difficulty to fall asleep thus making them only sleep for a few hours and live their life normally from then on.

With technology, sleep deprivation is most likely common to everyone these days. It is sure for the fact that a lot of cellphone users stay up at night facing their devices scrolling through social media like Facebook, Twitter, Tumblr, Instagram and a lot more famous websites these days.

Lack of sleep can give terrible side effects for us. First, not only can it make us tired and drowsy, our brain will also not function well compared to its unwearied state. Secondly, you will tend to lose your energy quickly when doing your daily routine. And for last, it increases the possibility of you getting diseases like high blood pressure, obesity and diabetes.

It is also said that lack of sleep can also cause mood swings, being tired meant that you are easily irritable, annoyance and exhaustion is never a good combination with each other. Sleep deprivation was never good in the first place but people use the time for sleeping to turn it into a make use of device schedule. Can we improve ourselves? Yes, you can actually.

What should we do to prevent sleep deprivation? The task is very simple, there is no need to use of materials all you have to do is do your best relax yourself and turn off your cellphone to avoid your attention to avert to it. Just take a few minutes to close your eyes and leave your body to take over the darkness of slumber upon yourself.

I'M NOT WEIRD I'M A ROBOT-TEACHER

BY: GWYNETH JAYNA DAYRIT

With the technology doing its finest - new and odd educators are now introduced. An under two-feet tall robot teaches the chinese kindergarten pupils how to solve problems and does story-telling.

Hi, I'm Keeko! I'm a robot educator. I'm roundish and white. I'm armless but I have tiny wheels. I have cameras that serve as my sensors for navigations and a front-camera to take documentations. Do you think I'm weird? Do you think I'm not capable to be a teacher?

Regardless of my structure and design, I can do what a traditional teacher can. In fact, we, robots, are not just built for teaching, we are also for companions. I don't have a huge difference from the humanity. I have and show feelings too! Unlike people who hide emotions, I show delight whenever my students answer correctly, by flashing heart-shaped eyes through my screen. I showed my pupils this when I gave them a task to help the prince find his way through a desert. My students put square mats as a representation for the path. They helped the prince out so I gave them my delightful eyes.

You see, I'm not weird. You just have to get used to me. Don't worry, in just a short time - you'll see more from us.

First foldable smartphone introduced

By: Gwyneth Jayna O. Dayrit

The Royole Corporation beaten the Samsung with its first folding smartphone.

American Tech Company - The Royole Corporation revealed the first foldable smartphone called the FlexPai. FlexPai costs $1,318 and can be used as phone or tablet. It has the usual smartphone features: 64 and 128 GB storage, 20-megapixel camera, fingerprint scanner, USB-C charging and storage expansion through MicroSD. FlexPai has a 7.8-inch screen, full-color flexible display with 4:3 aspect ratio and 1920 x 1440 resolution and is capable of folding up to 180 degrees. It is available with three screens : primary, secondary and edge. The Company tested the phone by bending it for over 200,000 times.

CEO of Royole Dr. Bill Liu stated "The Royole FlexPai foldable smartphone provides mobile phone users with a revolutionary, different experience compared to traditional phones."

Meanwhile, Samsung is yet to release their foldable phone this month.

A new and better alternative to bifocals

By: Johnlee C. Carreon

TouchFocus, a company from Japan recently developed a special kind of prescription glasses which can change focus from far to near and back again to replace the use of bifocals

The switch is a sensor type located at the side of the frame. When the switch is activated the liquid crystals set into the lower part of the lens altering the focal point and focus allowing the wearer to see objects and figures closer to them.

Touching the sensor again will return the glasses to its original prescription grade. Bifocals, trifocals or varifocal type of lenses already allow the wearer to use other parts of the lens to see things at different distances but they are currently not suitable for everyone and it limits the view of the lens when looking at a specific angle.

Mental illness became a lot more rampant than it was before. May it be an adult, a teenager, or just a mere innocent child. Mental illness doesn't choose anyone. It doesn't require age, looks, social status, nor popularity. It just captures you like a hostage being held captive.

With today's "standard" of living, some people are having a hard time to keep up. Our peers set these certain standards that we, as they say, "should follow". If they don't approve of the way you look, you're out of the group. If you can't afford expensive things, you're not one of them. Therefore, it results to low self-esteem, depression, and anxiety. You know what's worse? Mental illness hides behind our smiles, and one example of this is depression. Society created a standard that changes minute after minute. People change in a matter of second or it depends on the situation. A shallow standard is a threat to human kind. Some tries to keep up, but some are just mentally, and physically drained to even care. The shifting of events can make us go crazy.

Some are ashamed of having mental illness but honestly, people who spread it and talk about themselves having it are the ones who should be ashamed. We all have beauty inside of us that needs to be unleashed, but some people have been tormenting us with their destructive criticisms. Give up the melancholic and stagnant life that you've been used to. There are people who can help, just speak up.

Aspect of Sports in shaping people

Always think about sport shaping our physical abilities, like muscles, body build, speed, endurance, and more. But it also plays a crucial part in shaping our minds.

Sports based programs have shown improvement to the youth encouraging a desire to improve both physically and academically.

Since our early childhood, sports have been developing us to become active and be competitive. It's the perfect training for improving socialization, participation, admitting defeat, and overcoming disappointment.

Besides gaining muscles, and improving other physical aspects, it gives a lot of benefits, like: honesty, teamwork, fairness, high self-esteem, self discipline, strategic and critical thinking, obedience to rules and more.

It may also remove bad habits, by being interested in the sport and making you invested in it to play or support a team of your choice.

Sports and other extracurricular activities help teach students the skills for their future success.

As another school year begins, let's support them on their goal to being champions and encourage them to become well-disciplined and well-trained athletes.

SHS tops Track and Field Events

By: Gwen Stefani N. Agustin

Senior high players have dominated the track and field events of the 2018 SBNHS Intramurals held on August 24, 2018 at Sapangbato grounds near the cemetery.

Grade 11 players led the 100m dash for both categories, Zachary Tumang finished with a time of 4.6 seconds and Yrhis Barrion with 5.3 seconds.

The 200m and 400m dash for male categories were bagged by Grade 12 students, Marlon Aguilar who has sustained a sprain on the knee during the event, still managed to finish with a time of 11 seconds for the 200m dash, while Lloyd Banag set a time of 24 seconds for 400m dash. Rocelle Laurenciano, Grade 9 player, both got the first place for 200m and 400m dash female category, finishing off with 12.7 seconds for 200m and 27.7 seconds for 400m dash.

Ranelle Carreon, on the other hand, bested all players on the 800m dash male category, clocking in with a time of 54.5 seconds. "Ang goal namin ay hindi manalo, kundi matapos ang laro." Their coach, Mr. Manny Dela Cruz quoted. On the female category, Lyka Luna finished with a time of 1 minute 08 seconds.

The 4x1 Relay male category was won by the Grade 9 players and Grade 12 for female category, while both categories for 4x4 Relay was bagged by the Grade 11 players.
